

M MOSER ASSOCIATES

Today, companies in every industry are transforming their business models in response to massive changes and demands in the marketplace. At the heart of this transformation is the employee and the environments in which they work their magic.

At M Moser, we believe that design should be centered around the fact that people come first. Our consultative, business-forward approach accelerates the journeys of global companies by empowering their employees to be the champions of transformation.

Photo: PRA Health Sciences, Tel Aviv

People ask us how we're different.

It's simple really. We don't just design spaces, we create environments that impact the behavior of your people. We are inspired by the connection between people and purpose.

At M Moser, this means much more than just good design. We are a vertically integrated, multi-disciplinary team that takes your project from strategy and design all the way through construction and delivery. A single team focused on meeting your unique needs.

We design and deliver the physical, social and digital environments that change the way your people work and directly impact the success of your organization.

Photo: AllianceBernstein, Hong Kong

M MOSER ASSOCIATES

We pioneer new ideas.

MMOSERASSOCIATES

In a workplace that's constantly in flux, organizations need a new approach to space – one that helps them rethink and reinvent the way they work.

Since our beginnings, M Moser has anticipated the needs of our clients, pioneering new methodologies and changing the client experience.

We continue that tradition today, evolving our focus on behavior-based design and expanding our capabilities beyond the physical workplace into the virtual realm.

Photo: NBA, Mumbai

We work together as an integrated team.

Our projects only succeed when all their various parts – the technology, engineering, design and project process – come together in concert. We believe that the only way to truly create an integrated result is by working as an integrated team.

Creating cross-disciplinary teams, and being willing to be responsible for everyone's performance, is critical to both our client's success and our own.

We are committed to the right behaviors and spirit to enable the fluid integration of this team. Optimism, excitement, inclusion, curiosity, integrity and grit enables us to become one unified team dedicated to delivering the best projects for our clients.

MMOSER ASSOCIATES

Photo: Ogilvey & Mather, Jakarta

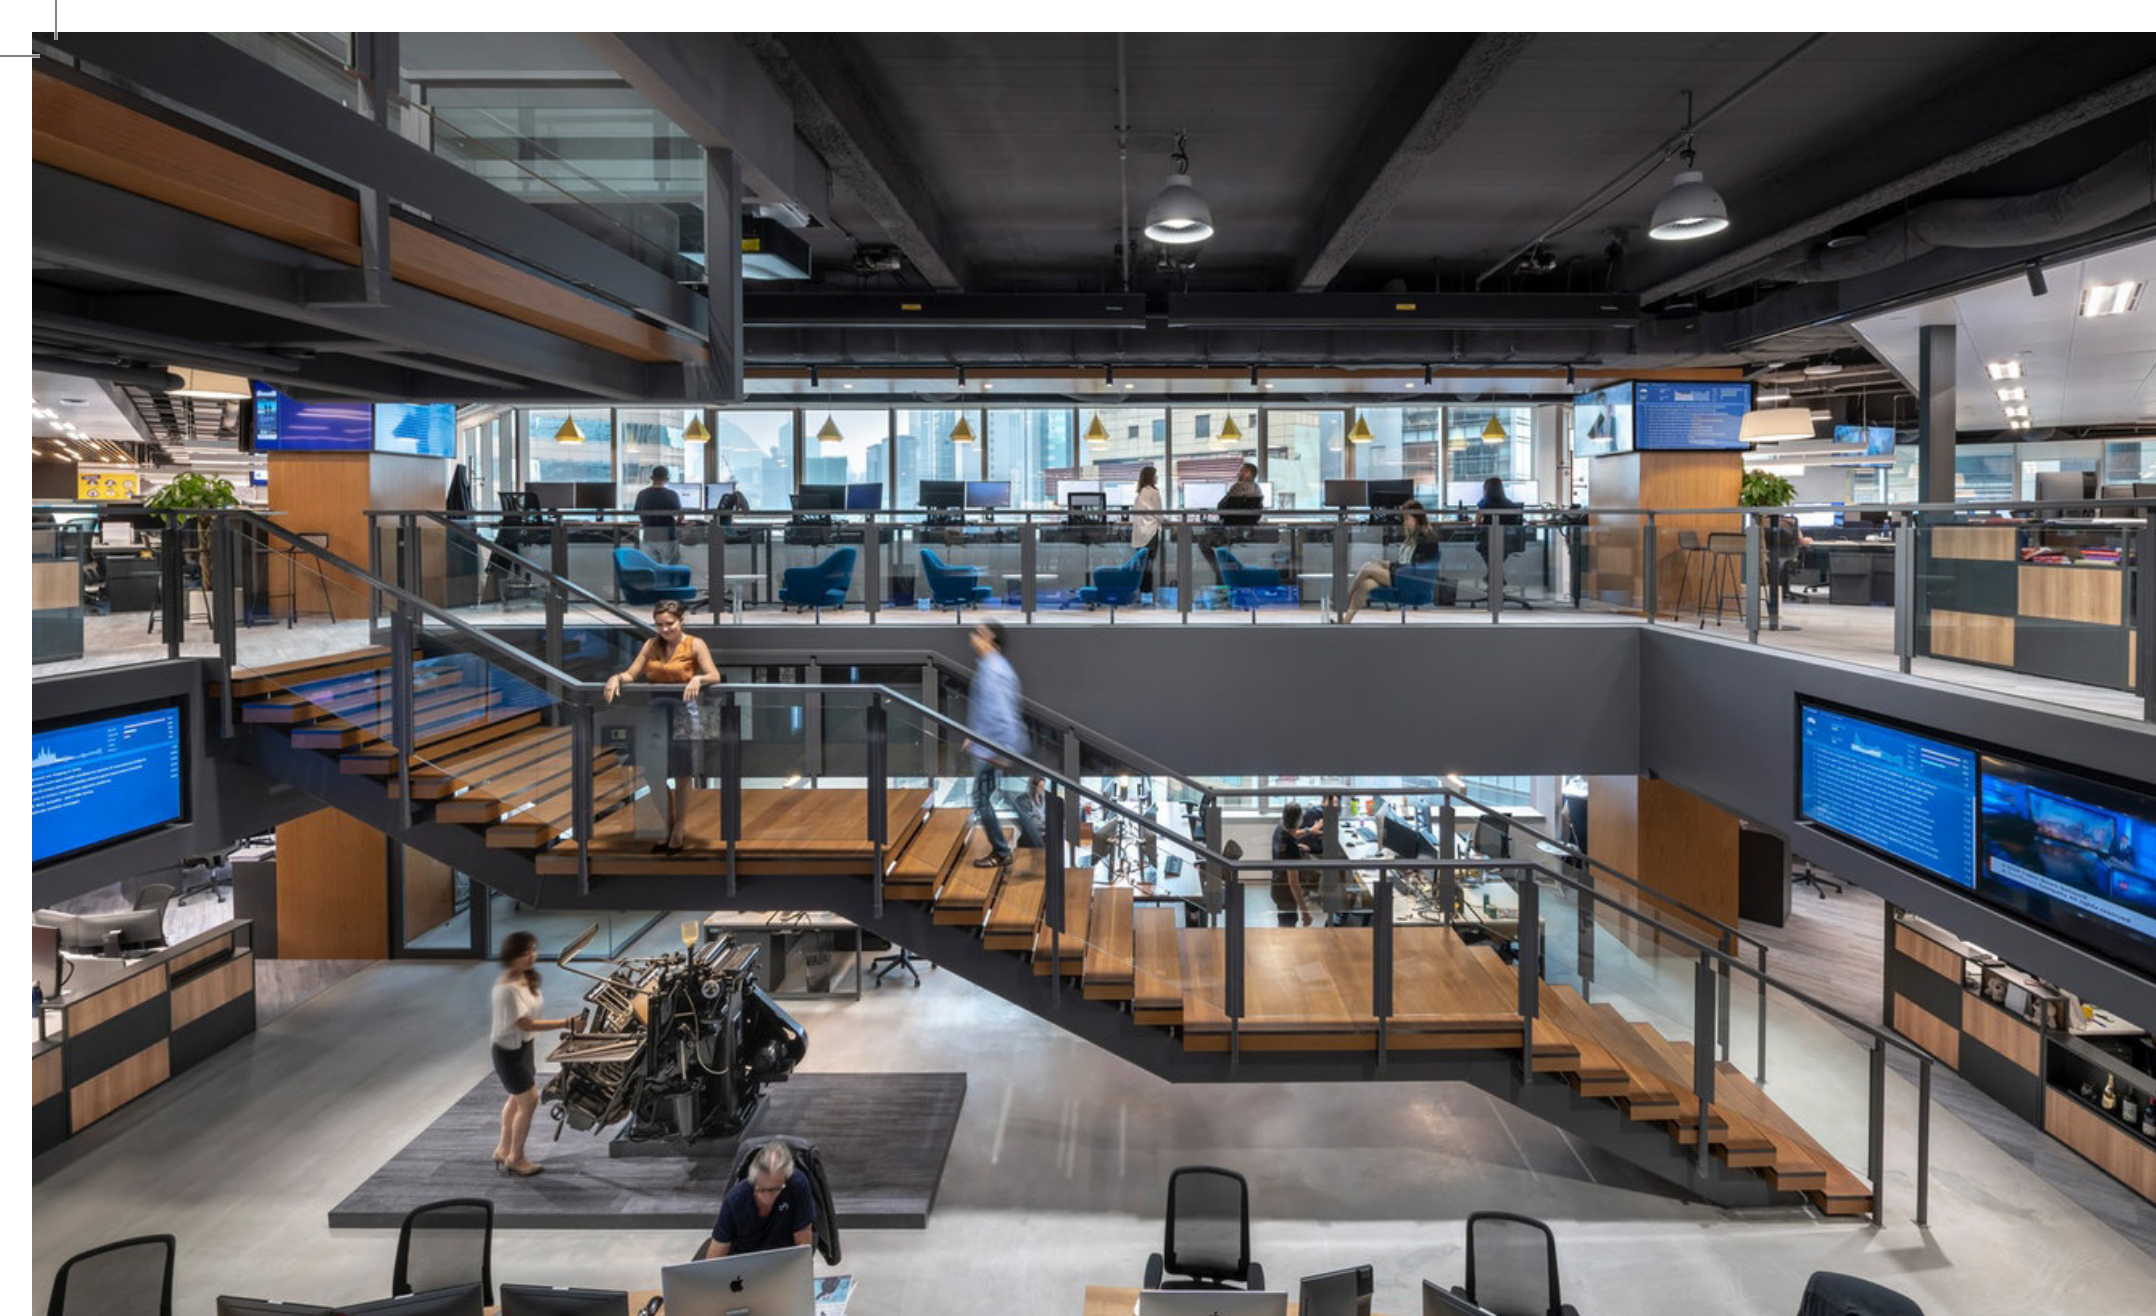

Photo: South China Morning Post, Hong Kong

MMOSER ASSOCIATES

We align the physical, social and digital to create high performing workplaces.

The physical environment is where people innovate and secure future success. An effective physical space meets the short and long term needs of business and brand by empowering employees to do their best day's work.

The social fabric of a space governs how work happens. In the right environment, culture can be scaled and sustained through physical and digital solutions. Nurture the right behaviors to create a positive, healthy working environment.

The digital environment brings space and teams to life — connecting people and technology to physical space, enabling better collaboration and delivering unique brand experiences to staff and visitors alike.